

MINOR IN ANTHROPOLOGY

Units required for Minor: 18, twelve of which must be in upper division

Program Description

Anthropology is the study of humans, past and present. Anthropologists take a broad approach to understanding the varieties of human experience, which uniquely places us at the juxtaposition of the social sciences, natural sciences and the humanities. Anthropology is traditionally organized into four subfields that offer distinctive skills.

Program Requirements ¹

Code	Title	Units
ANTH 178	Internship	3 - 4
ANTH 195A	Fieldwork in Archaeology	2
ANTH 195B	Fieldwork in Ethnology	2
ANTH 195C	Fieldwork in Physical Anthropology	2 - 3
ANTH 199	Special Problems	1 - 3

¹ There are no specific course requirements. However, no more than 3 units of the courses below may be counted toward the minor.