ENGL 130N. Creative Non-Fiction. 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ENGL 30A or ENGL 30B.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Students write several non-fiction pieces which may include (but are not limited to) autobiography, memoir, nature-writing, travel writing, and literary memoir. Students need not previously have had fiction-writing experience to take this course, but they must be prepared to write literary non-fiction of high quality.

ENGL 130W. Advanced Poetry Writing. 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ENGL 30A or ENGL 30C
Theory and practice in the writing of poetry at the advanced level. Consists primarily of the preparation and evaluation of student work. Students are also assigned supplemental readings designed to help them determine their affinity (or lack of affinity) with current poetic theory and practice.

ENGL 130Y. Creative Writing for Young Audiences. 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ENGL 30A or ENGL 30C
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

In this creative writing course students will learn how to write children's literature in a wide array of genres, including picture book texts, early readers, poetry, and middle grade and young adult novels. The course will give an overview of these genres and through portfolio assignments allow students to sample different genres and gain expertise in one particular genre.

ENGL 140A. Introduction to Old English. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Study of the grammar of Old English with particular attention to its survival in the modern language. Shows students how to use their instincts as native speakers of Modern English to acquire a good working sense of the original form of the language. Readings in biblical and historical texts will be supplemented by an introduction to Old English paleography which will allow students to access literature in the original.

ENGL 140B. Medieval Literature. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Survey of English literature from 1100 to 1500. Students will read texts from the various genres of Middle English literature—romance, lyric, ballad, lay, drama, history—in the dialects of origin. Focuses on how medieval thought both differs from and anticipates modern thought.

ENGL 140C. The English Renaissance. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

English Renaissance refers to exploration, experimentation, and creativity during the sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries in England. The poets, playwrights, and prose writers of the age include Shakespeare, Marlowe, Jonson, Spenser, Donne, Bacon, Sidney, and Milton. Explores, discusses, and analyzes representative works by figures of the age—including prose and poetry—making connections between the writers and the cultural context in which they worked.

ENGL 140E. Restoration Comedy. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

In-depth examination of the drama of late 17th century England, a drama which revolutionized the British theater and whose influence is still very much with us. It includes the study of the age itself, the social and political issues of the time as well as its art, specifically its comedies of manners, which it examines in its historical context as immediate descendants of Jacobean drama and progenitors of the Sentimental comedy of the 18th century.

ENGL 140F. The Golden Age Of Satire. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Covers the period from 1680 to 1745, focusing on the major works of England's greatest satirists: John Dryden, Jonathan Swift, John Gay, William Hogarth (the painter), and Alexander Pope. It begins with a general discussion of the nature and purpose of satire.

ENGL 140G. Birth of the British Novel. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

The novel as we know it today was invented in the 18th century. Students study the origins of the novel and read several major works of 18th-century British fiction, such as Defoe's Moll Flanders, Richardson's Clarissa, Fielding's Tom Jones, Sterne's Tristram Shandy, and Austen's Pride and Prejudice. Students also study Samuel Johnson who, though not a novelist, was perhaps the greatest prose writer of the period.

ENGL 140H. Nineteenth Century Novel. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Devoted to exploring the fiction of nineteenth-century British novelists from Jane Austen through Thomas Hardy. Particular attention is paid to prevalent genres, especially the mixing of romance and realism, narrative and plot structures, imagery patterns, character types and anti-types, and thematic concerns, which usually involve some sort of conflict between the self and society, the individual and institutions (or the environment).

ENGL 140I. British Romanticism. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Examines British literature and culture during the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries. Topics may include war and revolution, tourism and the picturesque, genius and imagination, the Gothic, Romanic orientalism and literature and the environment. Writers covered may include Smith, Blake, Wollstonecraft, the Wordsworths, Scott, Coleridge, Austen, de Quincey, Byron, the Shelleys, Hemans and Keats.

ENGL 140J. The Victorian Imagination. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Explores themes and forms of the Victorian period, stressing the evolving role of the artist and the growth of self-consciousness in verse and prose. Victorian themes like the divided self, the love-duty conflict, and the inevitable crises of faith are recurring problems in the obsessive Victorian debate between flesh and spirit. Analyzes this dialectic in the poetry of Browning, Tennyson, the Pre-Raphaelites and Decadents, in a representative novel, and in the prose of Ruskin, Mill, and Pater.
ENGL 140K. Modern British Literature, 1900-Present. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

In-depth examination of some of the important British texts in fiction, poetry, and drama from 1900 to the present. The works dramatize the important historical, social and aesthetic changes in a century which saw the collapse of the British Empire, the spread of democracy, the rise of Modernism and the Absurd in the arts, and the continuing struggle of the personal statement in an impersonal world.

ENGL 140L. Modern British Fiction, 1900-Present. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Survey of British fiction from 1900 to the present which covers the struggle between traditional Realism and Modernism in the novel, the decline and fall of the British Empire and the rise of the former colonies as purveyors of fictions in English in their own right, and the development of new experimental forms in the last decades of the 20th century.

ENGL 140M. Modern British Drama, 1889-Present. 3 Units
General Education Area/Graduation Requirement: Writing Intensive Graduation Requirement (WI), Arts (Area C1)
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

In-depth examination of British drama from the arrival of Ibsen's The Doll House on the British stage (and Shaw's publication of his influential treatise The Quintessence of Ibsenism) both laying to rest for serious artists the moralistic, bourgeois theater of the late 19th century. Includes study of various dramatic movements in England—including realism, absurdism, kitchen-sink naturalism, surrealism, epic theater, expressionism. Prerequisite: GWAR certification before Fall 09; or WPJ score of 80+; or 3-unit placement in ENGL 109M or ENGL 109W; or 4-unit placement in ENGL 109M or ENGL 109W and co-enrollment in ENGL 109X; or WPJ score 70 or 71 and co-enrollment in ENGL 109X.

ENGL 140R. Renaissance Drama. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Readings in and analysis of English drama written in the period, roughly, from 1500-1660. Provides a survey of playwrights and genres from the entire period or focus on a particular theme or a grouping of authors. Students will come to understand the texts as well as the variety of historical, political, cultural, social, sexual, and religious contexts in which the playwrights of the era composed their works.

ENGL 140Z. Studies in British Literature. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Topics in periods and movements in the literature of Britain. Course may focus on a limited period (e.g. The Edwardian Age), a single author (e.g. Anthony Trollope or Margery Kempe), an authorial dialogue (e.g. Shakespeare and Wilde or G.M. Hopkins and Christina Rossetti), or a unique literary feature, theme, or structure (e.g. the Sonnet or Literature and the Law).

ENGL 141A. The Essential Shakespeare. 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): GWAR certification before Fall 09; or WPJ score of 80+; or 3-unit placement in ENGL 109M or ENGL 109W; or 4-unit placement in ENGL 109M or ENGL 109W and co-enrollment in ENGL 109X; or WPJ score 70 or 71 and co-enrollment in ENGL 109X.
General Education Area/Graduation Requirement: Arts (Area C1), Writing Intensive Graduation Requirement (WI)
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Non-technical approach to Shakespeare’s most representative dramatic works, designed for the non-major. Focuses upon Shakespeare’s typical themes, conventions, and techniques, his development of character and situation, and his relationship to the culture and values of both his own and subsequent ages.

ENGL 141B. Shakespop: Shakespeare and Popular Culture. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

The works of William Shakespeare circulate in our culture in a wide variety of ways - in music, art, dance, film, television, advertising, management manuals, self-help books, etc. sometimes staying close to the original texts and at other times barley skimming the surface for cultural capital. This course will examine the dynamic relationships between Shakespeare in its diverse forms and popular culture by examining various instances of Shakespearean appropriation and adaptation. Themes include Shakespeare in Love, War, Business, and Youth Culture.

ENGL 145A. Chaucer - Canterbury Tales. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Reading of The Canterbury Tales in Middle English. Chaucer's great unfinished poem will be investigated as the pinnacle of literary achievement in the English Middle Ages, a work that attempts, like Dante’s Divine Comedy, to account for all the issues and problems of human life as medieval thinkers had come to regard them.

ENGL 145B. Shakespeare - Early Plays, 1592-1600. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Exploration of representative plays from roughly the first half of Shakespeare’s career as a dramatist, including early and middle comedies (e.g., A Midsummer Night’s Dream, As You Like It), early and middle tragedies (e.g. Richard II, Henry IV, Part One), while situating the plays within their cultural and historical context.

ENGL 145C. Shakespeare - Later Plays, 1600-1612. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Exploration of representative plays from roughly the second half of Shakespeare’s career as a dramatist, with emphasis on the major tragedies (Hamlet, Othello, King Lear, and Macbeth), but also including the middle comedies (e.g., Twelfth Night, Measure for Measure) and the later romances (e.g., The Winter's Tale, The Tempest), while situating the plays within their cultural and historic context.

ENGL 145I. John Milton. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Students study the major poems of Milton—among them Comus, "Lycidas," Paradise Lost, Paradise Regained, and Samson Agonistes—giving special attention to Paradise Lost. Students will also consider such prose works as Of Education, the divorce tracts, and Areopagitica, Milton’s famous argument against censorship. Finally, it includes lectures on the Puritan Revolution of 1640-60 and Milton’s role in it.

<tr>
<td>ENGL 150C</td>
<td>American Realism.</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>Fall, Spring</td>
<td>Examines American literature written during the period after the Civil War, a time of unprecedented change that transformed America from rural, agricultural, and homogeneous culture into its urban, industrial, heterogeneous counterpart. It investigates how the literature of this period reflected these changes and simultaneously tried to reconcile them with the values of an earlier America. The magnitude of this endeavor produced a remarkable literary heritage for the 20th century.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ENGL 150D</td>
<td>Early Modern Fiction, 1910-1950.</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>Fall, Spring</td>
<td>Survey of the important historical movements and conflicts in American literature, including the development of Realism and Naturalism, the experimental Modernist movement of the twenties, the populist literature of the thirties and the development of psychological realism in the forties.</td>
</tr>

<tr>
<td>ENGL 150J</td>
<td>Twentieth Century American Drama.</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>Fall, Spring</td>
<td>In-depth examination of American drama, starting with Eugene O'Neill. Traces American drama from the turn-of-the-century to the present, examining the plays themselves—their themes, dramatic idioms, stage craft and European influences—in their social, historical and artistic contexts.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ENGL 150L</td>
<td>Lost Generation Writers.</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>Fall, Spring</td>
<td>Examines one of the most remarkable flowerings of literary achievement in American letters, the writing of &quot;The Lost Generation,&quot; authors born between 1885 and 1900. Unified by a profound disillusionment with American culture after World War I, writers such as T.S. Eliot, Eugene O'Neill, William Faulkner, and Ernest Hemingway produced enduring modern masterpieces. In the process they demonstrated that their generation might find in art what had been lost on the battlefield.</td>

English (ENGL)
ENGL 180Z. Topics in Multi-Ethnic Literatures. 3 Units
General Education Area/Graduation Requirement: Humanities (Area C2)
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Comparative analysis of two or more ethnic literary and cultural productions with an emphasis on relationships among history, politics, and culture in American, British, or World literatures.

Note: May be repeated twice for credit as topics vary.

ENGL 185B. Twentieth Century Fiction by Women. 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): GWAR certification before Fall 09; or WPJ score of 80+; or 3-unit placement in ENGL 109M or ENGL 109W; or 4-unit placement in ENGL 109M or ENGL 109W and co-enrollment in ENGL 109X; or WPJ score 70 or 71 and co-enrollment in ENGL 109X.
General Education Area/Graduation Requirement: Humanities (Area C2), Writing Intensive Graduation Requirement (WI)
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Covers short stories and novels spanning the century and including women writers from a variety of nationalities, class, cultural and ethnic groups. Emphasizes what Virginia Woolf calls "the delicate transaction between a writer and the spirit of the age" and works with the writers presented so as to elicit the developing strands of influence and critique that bring these disparate writers into a common dialogue.

ENGL 185C. British Women Novelists. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Focuses on the ways in which women writers of the 19th and 20th centuries concern themselves with questions of the differences in male and female experience and how those differences affect their writing. Students will study the portrayal in fiction of the evolution of the "modern woman"—with the conflicts between self and other, dependence and independence, love and power that are part of that process.

ENGL 185D. American Women Writers. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Focuses on women writers primarily from the early 20th century with an emphasis on how gender expectations affect people, society, novels, poems. Students study the theme of awakening, the roles that families, friends, class, social expectations and conditions play in the development of individuality and self-awareness. Examines implications of power relationships and certain areas of conflict, such as those between self and other, repression and expression, inner and outer, dependence and independence, love and power.

ENGL 190D. Detective Fiction. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Readings in and analysis of crime and detective fictions (novels, short stories, plays, etc.). Crime fiction continually asks us what do we know about people and events and how do we know it. Investigates a variety of texts that address this desire to know and its connections to the mysterious and the criminal. Discussions of this popular genre will address the ways in which an obsession with crime and punishment manifests itself in various cultures and cultural moments.

ENGL 190H. The Supernatural in Literature. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Approaches supernatural literature from the perspective that, regardless of how bizarre or fantastical a literary work may seem, it deserves serious scholarly study because it represents the realism of apparent human experiences and provides readers with access to the inner workings of the human mind. Readings include Ambrose Bierce, H.P. Lovecraft, Edgar Allan Poe, Lord Dunsany, Fitz-James O’Brien, and contemporary writers from around the world.

ENGL 190J. Tolkien: Lord of the Rings. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Helps students understand the primary structures, images, and themes informing Tolkien’s Middle Earth and the ways these link the medieval worldview with modern, and even postmodern, wish-and-fear-fulfillments. Students will read Tolkien's criticism, poetry, short tales, The Hobbit, The Lord of the Rings trilogy, and selections from The Silmarillion.

ENGL 190P. Popular Literature and Culture. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

The study of popular texts through the various lenses of literary analysis. Students will work with a variety of texts, which might include genre fiction, graphic novels and comics, film and television, and other digital media, to consider the ways and whys of their popularity, as well as their impact, both historical and contemporaneous, on literature, audience, and culture.

ENGL 190Q. Gay and Lesbian Literature. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Readings in and analysis of literature by and about lesbians and gay men. Students will work with a variety of texts (fiction, poetry, film, nonfiction) about gay and lesbian identity; at the same time, students will come to understand the historical contexts and shifting theoretical paradigms that have shaped and reshaped conceptions of sexuality.

ENGL 190R. Romance Fiction. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Readings in and analysis of romance fictions (primarily novels). Romances continually promise emotional (and sexual) fulfillment, but what do readers of romance novels get from this reading experience? Discussions of this popular genre will address the ways in which the pursuit of love and companionship and the indulgence in lust and passion manifest themselves in various cultural moments; critical materials will help theorize the appeals, dangers, and uses of romance fiction.

ENGL 190V. Great Drama on Video. 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): GWAR Certification before Fall 09, or WPJ score of 70+, or at least a C- in ENGL 109M or ENGL 109W.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Studies and evaluates a selection of dramas on videos, such as but not limited to A Streetcar Named Desire, Death of a Salesman, Doll’s House, Hamlet, Oedipus, Pygmalion, and Rosencrantz and Guildenstern.
ENGL 191A. Masterpieces of the Cinema. 3 Units
General Education Area/Graduation Requirement: Arts (Area C1)
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Conducted by lecture and discussion. Students see a selection of the best, most enduring, most influential films made during the last hundred years and explore the historic, aesthetic, and philosophical reasons these films have generally been acknowledged as masterpieces.

ENGL 191A. Writing Center Theory and Practice: Internships. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Note: May be repeated for 6 units of credit.

Credit/No Credit

Students will work with a Composition faculty member to complete a project for the campus writing programs. The internship may involve the composition program, the University Reading and Writing Center, the Graduation Writing Assessment Requirement, or the Writing Across the Curriculum Program. Students should contact the appropriate coordinator to register for the course and design a project.

ENGL 197A. Film — Horror, Comedy, Science-Fiction. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Major genres of the cinema conducted by lecture and discussion. Students see a selection of films from the major genres including (but not limited to) horror, science fiction, and comedy; learn about the history and development of each genre; and explore the commercial, aesthetic, social, and philosophical forces that have shaped the major film genres.

ENGL 197G. Films of Great Directors. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Focuses on the role of the director in the creation of excellent films. Students will view, analyze, and discuss memorable films by great directors, concentrating on their personal styles, cinematic strategies, and typical themes. Representative examples will include such filmmakers as Chaplin, Keaton, Renoir, Welles, Ford, Truffaut, Bunuel, Kurosawa, Hitchcock, Bergman, and others.

ENGL 197L. The American Film. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Focus on American films. Topics may cover a range of periods, movements, genres, styles and issues

ENGL 197M. Recent American Films. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Emphasizes the trends, themes, forms, and cinematic techniques, technological advances, and "revisionist" genres of recent American films of approximately the last twenty years, partly as a way of analyzing the American film conventions, partly as a means of examining our contemporary culture, but primarily as a means of analyzing and understanding the films themselves.

ENGL 197P. British Film. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Screenings and analysis of films produced in Great Britain. Students will view a variety of British films, starting possibly with silents and early Hitchcock and ending with films from the contemporary moment. Students will come to understand the historical and artistic contexts of the films and encounter the shifting definitions of what represents "British" on the screens of the cinema and in the minds of viewers. May provide a survey of films or focus on particular themes, studios, or directors.

ENGL 197R. Films Of Alfred Hitchcock. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Traces Hitchcock's "game with the audience" from its beginnings in silent films, through its British period, to its American conclusion. It closely examines important sequences, shots, images, character types, and themes. Students will view several of Hitchcock's classic films in their entirety.

ENGL 198T. Senior Seminar In English. 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ENGL 120A and a minimum of 90 units.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Features specialized topics taught by a variety of instructors depending upon the semester. Topics can include subject matter from literature, linguistics, English education, creative writing, composition/rhetoric, and film. Tend to the production of a significant research paper, a paper which will emphasize the student's ability to: Analyze and interpret multiple texts; Integrate primary and secondary sources; Construct a sustained, coherent, and rhetorically sophisticated piece of writing.

ENGL 199. Special Problems. 1 - 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Individual projects or directed reading.
Note: Departmental petition required.

Credit/No Credit

ENGL 200. Methods and Materials of English Studies. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Required for all MA candidates in English.
ENGL 200A. Methods and Materials of Literary Research. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Required of all MA candidates in English under Plans A and C and Creative Writing Plan B, acquaints students with principal sources and techniques of literary research. It also introduces students to contemporary critical approaches to literature. Students should take this course as early as possible in their graduate careers, preferably in the first semester. Students prepare an annotated bibliography and a paper employing a particular critical approach to one of a selection of anchor texts.

Note: Graduate Writing Intensive (GWI) course.

ENGL 200D. Materials and Methods of TESOL Research. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Explores research design and testing methods for quantitative and qualitative research in second language acquisition (SLA). Students develop the ability to read second language acquisition research critically; study a variety of theoretical perspectives represented in current SLA research; and review the history of the current "burning issues" in SLA.

Note: Graduate Writing Intensive (GWI) course.

ENGL 200E. Curriculum and Assessment Design for Language Classrooms. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Examine the interplay between curriculum design and classroom assessment. The goals are 1) to familiarize prospective teachers with the terminology and practices underlying curriculum design and classroom assessment; 2) to develop the ability to analyze student needs and propose appropriate changes to curricula; and 3) to construct and implement language tests that reflect curricula.

Note: May be counted as an elective for the M.A. TESOL program.

ENGL 201D. Contemporary Theory. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Enables students to critically analyze the major scholarly works of the field, the theory and practice of the field, and the relationship of the field of study to the broader field of composition and rhetoric.

Note: Graduate Writing Intensive (GWI) course.

ENGL 210A. Reading/Vocabulary Acquisition. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Preparation of teachers of English to speakers of other languages. Examines the psycholinguistic bases of the reading process in ESL, provides opportunities for seminars to test reading practices in peer demonstrations, and explores the fundamentals of testing, evaluation, and syllabus design in the ESL curriculum. Particular attention for reading and vocabulary will be given to miscue analysis and acquisition theory.

ENGL 215B. ESL Writing/Composition. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Provides the groundwork to prepare teachers of English to speakers of other languages for composition instruction. An examination of the theoretical bases of language acquisition, composing process, and correction/revision strategies that will enable students to plan and demonstrate writing lessons to their peers. Consideration of traditional tests of writing, such as the TOEFL, the WPJ, and innovative forms of evaluation are integrated with syllabus design and text evaluation.

ENGL 215C. Pedagogical Grammar for TESOL. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Examines those areas of English grammar that are typically taught to non-native speakers. The goals are 1) to familiarize prospective ESL teachers with terminology and analyses that can be used in the classroom; 2) to develop the ability to explain and exemplify grammatical phenomena in terms accessible to ESL students; 3) to review sample materials and techniques for teaching English grammar to non-native speakers.

ENGL 215D. Pedagogy of Spoken English. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Examines aspects of spoken English that are typically taught to non-native speakers. The goals are 1) to familiarize prospective ESL teachers with terminology and analyses that can be used in the classroom; 2) to develop the ability to analyze student difficulties and provide appropriate help; 3) to review sample materials and techniques for teaching spoken English to non-native speakers.

ENGL 220A. Teaching College Composition. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Designed for prospective community college and university writing instructors. It focuses on theory and research in rhetoric, composition, and cognitive development and on practical, pedagogical classroom strategies. Students discuss a variety of theories and research studies and then apply writing theory to classroom strategies, design lessons, assignments, and syllabi, and practice analyzing and responding to student writing; and prepare a teacher portfolio.

Note: Graduate Writing Intensive (GWI) course.

ENGL 220C. Topics in Composition Studies. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Rotating series of topics relevant to composition studies. Regardless of the topic, students will explore the history of the field, the theory and practice of the field, the major scholarly works of the field, and the relationship of the field of study to the broader field of composition and rhetoric.

Note: May be repeated for credit if topic differs.

</table>
ENGL 240A. Chaucer. Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Investigation of the body of Chaucer's poetry, seen against the backdrop of the late 14th century.

ENGL 240B. The World and the Flesh: Victorian Fiction. Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Explores the Divided-Self of Victorian fiction, a consciousness split between word and flesh, duty and love, society and the self, or most generally between one's public role and one's private needs. Such polar themes affect several fictional genres such as the Pastoral, Gothic, Bildungsroman, Historical Novel and Naturalism. The word and flesh dialectic also informs the narrative structure of Victorian fiction.

ENGL 240E. Major 18th Century Novelists. Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Focuses on individual novelists, pairs of novelists, or thematic groupings. Might include works of fiction by authors such as Behn, Defoe, Richardson, Fielding, Sterne, Goldsmith, Bumey.

ENGL 240F. Dickens and Thackeray. Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Dickens and Thackeray dominated the popular mind as the novelists of the age; no other novelists are more representative of their age and yet can claim to have risen above it. Concentrates on just a few of their novels. Students study the writers and their novels in the context of English society in the 19th century.

ENGL 240G. Yeats, Kavanagh and Heaney: Ireland's Modern Irish Poets. Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Yeats, often considered a modernist and a poet in the British tradition, saw himself primarily as an Irish poet working within distinctly Irish literary traditions. Focuses on Yeats' conception of a national, ethnic poetry and the effect that mission had on Ireland's other two major 20th century poets—Kavanagh and Heaney. Students analyze Yeats' most influential work; Kavanagh and Heaney are studied in terms of their debt to Yeats and their individual expressions of national consciousness.

ENGL 240H. DH Lawrence. Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Lawrence was immensely original. Like Tolstoy and Dostoevsky, Lawrence is a prophetic visionary intensely concerned to articulate and embody an all-embracing, profoundly existential, vision of life. Examines Lawrence's work closely after a brief exploration of modernism and Lawrence's relation to it and an examination of how conditions in post-Victorian England and events in Europe in the early 20th century contributed to the making of Lawrence's world view and his role as a controversial outsider.

ENGL 240I. Jane Austen. Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Focuses on Jane Austen, perhaps England's greatest novelist. Students read almost all of her work and trace the development of her art from her teenage years until her death in 1817, noting how each new book is a distinct departure from previous ones. To put Austen's achievement in perspective, students also read Jane Eyre by Charlotte Bronte, one of Austen's severest critics. Comparing the two novelists provides an even clearer sense of the richness and subtlety of Austen's art.

ENGL 240J. James Joyce. Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
James Joyce is a monument among twentieth century writers. His masterful Ulysses and other intricate works have kept generations of critics in business. Examines his major fictions, studying them in relationship to the life out of which they grew.

ENGL 240K. English Renaissance Drama. Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Sense of exploration, discovery, experimentation, creativity, and moral complexity of the Renaissance era in England (roughly 1550 to 1660) is reflected in the variety and number of plays written by Shakespeare's predecessors, contemporaries, and successors. Following introductory material on the development of the drama in England, students analyze Elizabethan and Jacobean playwrights, exclusive of Shakespeare. Emphasis is on the forms and themes of the plays, with application of "New Historicism" and attention to Renaissance backgrounds

ENGL 240L. Conrad and Greene. Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
When English critic F.R. Leavis declared that the great English novelists were Austen, Eliot, James, and Conrad, he emphasized these writers' intensely moral pre-occupation. No modern novelist has been more influenced by Conrad than Graham Greene, whose work has the same romantic subject matter and concerns with ethical judgments. Both writers are concerned with the question: to act or not to act, for either choice has inescapable ethical consequences.

ENGL 240M. The Gothic Novel. Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Examines the origins and development of the Gothic Novel in England. Attention is paid to recurring structures and themes such as architecture, the use of a narrative frame, reader identification figure, the divided self, the relationships between sex, violence, and death, the wasteland motif, and existential concerns. Special attention is given to the role of the reader and his or her response to the novels.

ENGL 240N. Arthurian Literature. Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Study of Arthurian literature in the Middle Ages from its origins to Thomas Malory.

ENGL 240O. Satire In Age Swift+Pope. Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
Examines major narrative, plot, and genre structures, image patterns, and thematic preoccupations in Dickens' novels, like the interrelationships between homes, prisons, factories and schools. The influences of Dickens' life, periodical publishing of illustrated magazines, and of Victorian society also receives attention. Introduces students to relevant insights of several "post-structural" critical schools, including those of deconstruction, the carnivalesque, liminality, and Lacanian psychology.
ENGL 240S. Modern Irish Fiction.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
3 Units
Examines in detail one aspect of the Irish Renaissance (approximately 1880-1940)—Ireland's contribution to fiction in the twentieth century. Also examines not only individual writers and works but the development of the genres of the novel and short story and movements such as realism, naturalism, modernism, and post-modernism. Writers might include Joyce, O'Brien, O'Flaherty, O'Faolain, and others.

ENGL 240T. Renaissance Literature.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
3 Units
Students will explore the poetry, prose, and drama produced in England during the 16th and 17th centuries. Contemporary criticism and theory will provide a context for reading these primary works.

ENGL 240U. Nineteenth-Century Texts and Sex.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
3 Units
Examines a range of sexual identities through which nineteenth-century Britons imagined their lives. Such identities were influenced by ideas about race, class, status, ethnicity, gender, and age that often differed markedly from our own. Moves beyond the literary to look at texts from a variety of genres (medical, literary, erotic, and autobiographical) and cover both well-treated and more obscure texts.

ENGL 240X. Contemporary British Fiction--1890 to Present.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
3 Units
Students read and study British works of fiction—novels and short stories—written after 1979. Although the choice of authors and works might vary from one semester to another, focuses on works of fiction deemed significant and valuable by literary scholars and critics.

ENGL 240Z. Special Topics in British Literature.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
3 Units
Open to the investigation of either a limited period (e.g. World War I poets or Victorian Children's literature), a single author (e.g. Hanif Kureishi or Aphra Behn), an authorial dialogue (e.g. Chaucer & Spenser, Stoppard and Shakespeare, Sidney & Wroth), or a unique literary feature, theme, or structure (e.g. Pastoral & Georgic or Empire & Race).

ENGL 245A. Shakespearean Romance.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
3 Units

ENGL 250A. Wharton and Cather.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
3 Units
Focuses on the writing of Edith Wharton and Willa Cather, two of our most accomplished early American writers. Shows how these writers, poised on the threshold of the twentieth century—and pulled simultaneously forward and back—explored similar themes, and how, as two of the few revered women writers of this time, they focused particularly on shifting gender roles; Wharton with her eye on interior space and Cather with her eye on exterior space.

ENGL 250D. Hawthorne and Melville.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
3 Units
Readings and discussion of major works by Hawthorne and Melville.

ENGL 250F. Whitman and Dickinson.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
3 Units
This seminar on two of America's greatest poets, Whitman and Dickinson, focuses primarily on the poetry, but also on letters and prose pieces. Students read and discuss criticism on each writer, and study cultural and historical contexts of these two contemporaneous but antithetical poets. Study includes traditional and feminist studies of Dickinson and Cultural Studies of Whitman. Forms a dialogue between these two remarkable and remarkably different poets; students join in that dialogue.

ENGL 250H. Major American Realists.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
3 Units
The period between the end of the Civil War and the outbreak of World War I was a time of unprecedented and transforming change in American life. In response to these new conditions came "the rise of realism," which radically changed American ideas about the nature of fiction, the reality it represented, and its effects on readers. Students study theories of realism, their historical development and the current status of literary theories of realism as influenced by deconstruction and feminist literary theory. These theoretical positions are applied to a range of short fiction and novels.

ENGL 250J. Henry James.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
3 Units
James' innovations in narrative technique paved the way for the emergence of the modern novel; his development of a theory of fiction helped establish an American literary tradition and bring the American novel into the mainstream of British and European literature. Students read James' major works of fiction and criticism with an eye to understanding and enjoying them and to assessing the nature of the writer's contribution to the novel as a serious art form.

ENGL 250K. Contemporary American Fiction.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
3 Units
Studying contemporary fiction involves challenges and pleasures. Unlike studies in most areas of literature where the best writers have been clearly established, studying contemporary fiction means risking one's own critical skills to identify what new texts and writers are significant without the help of earlier generations of scholars and critics.

ENGL 250L. American Women Writers.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
3 Units
Focuses on the contributions of women writers to American literature. Begins with a brief overview of feminist critical approaches and of the history of women writing in America. Close critical analysis of texts focuses on four or five writers from various centuries, regions, and ethnic groups. Covers such writers as Toni Morrison, Sarah Jewett, Marilynnne Robinson, Eudora Welty, Lee Smith, Leslie Silko, and others. Students work collaboratively to present background information and critical approaches to the writers.
ENGL 250R. Wharton and Chopin. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Growth of a feminine perspective in literary theory has resulted in a radical reconsideration of the American literary canon, producing new readings of texts, patterns in literature and culture, and connections between texts. Wharton and Chopin are two writers taking a place of importance in the development of the realistic novel in America and in the creation of a distinctive tradition of women's literature. Focuses on the heuristic possibilities of a distinctly different literature by women, the role of gender, and the contributions of Wharton and Chopin to the novel.

ENGL 250Q. Irish-American Fiction. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Examines the theme of immigration and that of assimilation in a particular ethnic group: Irish-Americans. Through an examination of the literature, we find an ethnicity that is uneasily part of the American fabric and one defined to a large degree by the culture they either abandoned or were forced to abandon. Representative writers include Eugene O'Neill, Alice McDermott, William Kenney, Mary Gordon, John Gregory Dunne.

ENGL 250R. Wm. Faulkner: Major Fict. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

ENGL 250T. Postmodern Fiction. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Study of important recent fiction that has come to be referred to as "postmodernist" because its non-traditional themes, subject matter, and narrative technique embody or reflect the postmodern era.

ENGL 250U. Roaring Twenties Literature. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Focus on literature dramatizing the roaring, irrepressible twenties, a decade of unprecedented change following the "Great War to end all wars" Highlighting Fitzgerald, whose life mirrors the times, also includes other "expatriate" writers such as Wharton, Dos Passos, Stein, Eliot, and Hemingway, who looked at America from an overseas perspective and reflected on the changes in communication, sensibility, and values resulting from the new freedom of this revolutionary, liminal period.

ENGL 250V. Cultural Studies. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Surveys the range of contemporary cultural phenomena and the relevant modes of analysis currently employed in the widespread practice generally referred to as Cultural Studies.

ENGL 250W. The Poetry of T.S. Eliot. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Focuses on the poetry of T.S. Eliot, one of the dominating figures of English and American literature for a substantial part of the twentieth century. In 1948 he received the Nobel Prize for Literature, and by 1950 his authority had reached a level that seemed comparable in English writing to that of figures like Johnson and Coleridge. Offers students the opportunity to analyze and discuss Eliot's poems. We will trace his poetic/aesthetic development from his early poems ("Prufrock" et al.) to his epoch-making The Waste Land, and onward through his conversion to Anglicanism and his mature accomplishment of Four Quartets.

ENGL 250Z. Special Topics in American Literature. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

The investigation of either a limited period (e.g. The Transcendental period or the Novel of the 1960s), a single author (e.g., Philip Roth or Toni Morrison), or a unique literary feature or structure (e.g. Literary Naturalism or the Experimental Novel).

ENGL 260A. Myth Criticism. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Introduces and traces through several literary works and genres the fundamental topics in myth criticism; significance of ritual, fairy tales, and archetypal romance forms; contributions of Freudian, Lacanian, and Jungian psychology and their relation to Joseph Campbell's notion of the monomyth; relevance of Victor Turner's "liminal" theories of rites of passage in anthropology; importance of recent discoveries with the bicameral and "triune" brain in biological sciences; kinds of myth (hero, heroine, American, love, wasteland, artist, time); and relationships between myth criticism and post-structuralism.

ENGL 260D. Literature and Biography. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

ENGL 260E. Postcolonial Literature. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Focuses on contemporary literary works from postcolonial locations such as Africa, Australia, South Asia, Canada and the Caribbean. Explores the relationships between literary texts and the historical and social contexts from which they arise; especially European colonialism.

ENGL 260F. Seminar in Literary History. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Literary history designed to introduce the graduate student to bibliographical materials necessary to the successful pursuit of advanced study in English. It will deal with the major historical periods of English and American literature, and looks briefly at the major European traditions.

ENGL 280A. Aesthetics of Minority Literature. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

ENGL 280B. The Ethics of Black Verbal Aesthetics. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Survey of the interaction between aesthetics and ethics in African-American literature. Emphasizing a call-and-response verbal aesthetic-prominent in the oral traditions of segregated communities throughout the African Diaspora-as an extension of a diasporic ethics of improvisational black identity that, especially late twentieth century literature recovers as basis for challenging the fixed, essentialist ethoi and aesthetics of earlier African-American literature more greatly influenced by traditional, Christian-Humanist discourses on ethnicity.
ENGL 280J. Jewish American Literature. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Students will examine a rich tradition of Jewish American literature in the context of a complex American multicultural narrative. Topics include the immigrant experience, assimilation, alienation, responses to the Holocaust and other forms of anti-Semitism, the place of Israel in the Jewish American imagination, and a contemporary rediscovery or reconstruction of Jewishness and Judaism. Students will interrogate what constitutes Jewish American identity and defines its literature in a culture that is itself conflicted about its secular/religious ethos and the degree to which subjectivity is determined by "consent and/or descent.

ENGL 297A. Prose Style In Literature. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

ENGL 299. Special Problems: English Tutorial. 1 - 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): ENGL 200.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Individual projects or directed reading. Highly recommended for, and open only to, students who are able to carry on independent tutorial study. Admission by approval of faculty member who is to act as tutor and of graduate advisor or of Department Chair.
Credit/No Credit

ENGL 410A. Writing Center Theory and Practice: Internships. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Note: May be repeated for up to 6 units of credit.
Credit/No Credit

ENGL 410B. Internship-ESL Teaching. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Provides interns with an opportunity to experience the day-to-day life of an ESL class. Tutors will observe an ESL class, will assist the teacher in conducting various aspects of the class, and will be responsible for planning and teaching at least one class session. Seminar meetings will provide an overview of ESL teaching methodology.
Credit/No Credit

ENGL 410C. Internships. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Credit/No Credit

ENGL 410E. Internship in Teaching Writing. 3 Units
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Students considering a teaching career intern in a composition class at an area community college. They work with a mentor teacher on site and meet periodically at CSUS. The internship provides students with an opportunity to experience the day-to-day life of a composition class and hands-on opportunity to design assignments, respond to student writing, conduct class discussions, etc. Students read composition and rhetorical theory with an eye toward day-to-day application in the classroom.
Credit/No Credit

ENGL 410F. Internship in Teaching Literature. 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): Recommended: either ENGL 225 or ENGL 220A and instructor permission.
Corequisite(s): Recommended: either ENGL 225 or ENGL 220A.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring
