COMS 196R. Latin American Rhetoric. 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): COMS 100B
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

This course combines historical and rhetorical perspectives to examine the development of Latin American public culture. Studying different types of public discourse that combine intellectual sophistication with literary merit (including speeches, essays, poetry, and art), will illuminate how a unique public culture developed in Latin America, born from the roots of European and indigenous traditions. As we analyze these texts, we will examine what contributions their authors make to the field of rhetoric and rhetorical theory.

COMS 199. Special Problems. 1 - 3 Units
Prerequisite(s): COMS 100A.
Term Typically Offered: Fall, Spring

Individual projects or directed reading open to students who wish to attempt independent work. Faculty approval required.

COMS 200A. Intro To Graduate Studies--Disciplinary History and Conventions. 1 Unit
Term Typically Offered: Fall only

This course introduces students to graduate-level research in Communication Studies, acquainting students with the discipline generally, and the CSUS Department of Communication Studies specifically. During this course, students will learn the: culture and expectations of graduate study, areas of inquiry in the discipline, sources for advanced research (including journals and databases, etc.), and conventions such as academic writing. Students will also learn about disciplinary structures, requirements for various degrees, types of academic/scholarly organizations, and venues for showcasing research.
Note: Required; COMS 200A and 200B can be taken in any order, and must be completed in the first two semesters of graduate study.

COMS 200B. Intro To Graduate Studies--Paradigm and Methods. 1 Unit
Term Typically Offered: Spring only
